

The Art of Being Smart

Child Interest Tracker

How to use this tool: By filling out the information below, you will become more aware of what your child's interests and aptitudes are - their natural gifts and talents lie here!

For best results, print off a copy of this page and take inventory of your child's interests every few months as his interests may change with time. By taking periodic inventory like this, you will begin see a trend in terms of what is appealing to him.

After a few years of doing this, you will gain more insight into where your child's innate gifts and talents lie. Accordingly, you can encourage and support him to pursue these areas of interest. This will result in a great partnership between you and your child, ensuring long term success and a harmonious relationship between you.

